WOMEN HEAR NOTED LECTURER AT CENTRAL UNION

College Club Evening was celebrated at Central Union Church yesterday evening where Mrs. Hannah Jenkins, director of design and art at Pomona College, California addressed the College Club and the church congregation.

It was a meeting of... and for women essentially. The... were many present but the... which was on "Women to the Front" concerned itself with the relation of women to world problems and the part which women must play in their solution.

White slavery, marriage, divorce, intemperance and other problems confronting women were handled by the speaker in plain language and her address throughout was characterized by its fluency and directness. In conclusion, the speaker paid tribute to such women as Miss J. A. Adams and Miss Blascoer who are striving and devoting their lives for the betterment of humanity and are giving their time to striving to make others happy with no thought for themselves.

"These are women to be proud of," said Mrs. Jenkins. "They are the women to get in touch with, to know and to emulate. The ones who are coming to the front and doing great things for humanity."

Mrs. Jenkins said in part: "Women to the Front!" That sounds like a bugle call. When the reveille is sounded it means "get up and get busy." (It was your pastor who sounded the bugle—I am just going to give a little "hoot.")

This call comes to the army of church and college women throughout our land. Do not think I am here as a suffragette. No there is not a woman in our land who knows less of politics than I do. There are many like myself who care nothing for the franchise who would rather not be brought to the front in that way.

"Personally I might say I have no complaint against the gentlemen in their management of political affairs; I have fared well in the past and do not expect to live as long in the future as I could well afford to leave the ballot to the men—but how startling so far, that sounds, in the great rush of political, professional and commercial life. Conditions have changed. Women are forging ahead in every branch of professional and industrial life—then there is the great mass of working women in factory, shop, business and service. This problem of voting came to me forcibly one day when I went into one of our orange packing houses. There I listened without their knowing to a heated discussion on the campaign. The conclusion I arrived at was "College Women and Church Women to the Front." It is this illiterate working class that is going to make trouble and while I hate politics and would rather do almost anything rather than go to the polls. Yet if my vote will offset that of a woman who will be led by her emotions or be the tool of a boss, then it is my duty to vote.

Human Nature Unchanged. "The part that women have played in politics in the past is that any criterion for us women of today? We might say conditions have changed—but human nature is not widely different from the days of the Renaissance. One difference there is and to our advantage in that we move and have our being among a vast army of college men—men who have annihilated instinct and are ruled by reason and understanding—so that we women are spared the necessity of being great diplomats.

"Think of the harrassing life of Isabella d'Este that queen of the Renaissance."

sance, a woman who could juggle with popes and emperors; was the world any better for her being in it? Yes, she faced and solved the problems of her times. She took a stand in social affairs admitting none to her salons but those noted for their morals and understanding. She gave an impetus to art, letters and music. She it was who made Leonardo and Titian famous as portrait painters sitting to both. She came to the front in her day lived up to the best that was in her.

White Slave Problem. The white slave problem should occupy the serious and prayerful attention which is controlled by foreigners not confined to the white race. The lack of reverence for the Sacrament of marriage. Many women today it would seem forget the "bond" which they acknowledge before the world—to keep the flame of mentality burning but irreverently when asked the question "Will you take this man, etc. Yes," with the mental reservation. For six months, give her time to get to Reno.

"Divorce and its great feeder laxity in high moral principles in the rich underworked social set, intemperance among women—these and many other problems confront you. What are you going to do about it? You will have a chance to make a return for the years of prayers and petitions that have been offered for your protection. You are all in the tendency to accomplishing great things. 'In unity there is strength.' I am sure Paul would be delighted if he were to come to the Central Union church and see how you are just as he would have you 'all of one mind.'"

L. T. PECK IS PROGRESSING IN TRANSIT WORK

CHILD LOSES FINGERS WHEN CAP EXPLODES

As the result of playing with a dynamite cap yesterday afternoon, Belden Bartlett, ten-year-old son of C. G. Bartlett of the Honolulu brewing company, is in Queen's Hospital suffering from serious injuries received by the explosion of the cap. Three fingers on the child's right hand were blown off, and the flying pieces of the combustible inflicted a number of painful wounds over his body.

The accident happened shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the family residence at Kaalawai. There was no one in the vicinity at the time the accident happened. Mrs. Bartlett is in San Francisco with one of the children, and Mr. Bartlett is in Hilo.

NEW CHINESE DOLLAR PUTS IN APPEARANCE

The new Chinese silver dollar, the first specimen of which arrived from the Orient this morning and is proudly exhibited to his friends by U. S. District Attorney R. W. Breckons, plainly shows the influence of English and American civilization and the personality of the new Chinese Republic's first president, Sun Yat Sen.

The coin is similar in shape to the American dollar, though slightly larger and heavier, and Breckons believes it probably is worth not more than about 60 cents in American money.

The well-known features in profile of Dr. Sun Yat Sen occupies the center of one side, the pictures being surrounded by Chinese script engravures. Several large Chinese letters, or words, fill the center of the opposite side, while around the edge, in bold English lettering, are the words: "The Republic of China. One dollar."

CHANGE TENNIS DATES

There will be no conflict of dates between the tennis and polo tournaments if arrangements can possibly be made to the contrary. A meeting of the tennis tournament committee has been called to take up the question of changing the dates so that tennis matches will not be played on days when the polo tournament is in progress.
